Short Introduction

I am "Licensed in health service", which means I have finished five years university study (theory and practice) followed by one year of practical work in a hospital and one more year in the countryside as country doctor. This education corresponds to a "general physician" in Germany.

Afterwards I started working in the country in development aid projects in the area health especially in the prevention in the high Andes of the region Puno.

In cooperation with the Peruvian health ministry I took over the responsibility of the healthcare station in communities (especially Chaullacocha and Chupani) in the high Andes of the region Cusco. In addition to the medical attention of the people I started training them in hygiene, the basic of prevention.

The institution, which had started the cooperation with the ministry, changed my working area and I was transferred to the administration. There I had the opportunity to get to know Karin who had visited the two communities, in which I had worked, before. That was the starting point of several conversations with the idea of doing something for the development of the rural population.

How the Project Started

After several further conversations with Karin the possibility to start a corresponding project opened up. From my perspective it could work out very well in the two communities I had worked in previously because I knew the people, their living situation and needs already. From the health point of view their living conditions are untenable and result in a lot of illnesses. Changing these basic things would have a great positive result. Starting a development project with the focus on improving the general life situation of the families, their houses and health was a dream.

In this situation Karin offered her help to start the project without hesitation. Since then we are working together and started with the presentation of the project in the two communities and then with the first health topics on family level, individually designed for each current situation.

Karin took over the responsibility to get the project up and running. Without her work it would be impossible which is especially due to her experiences in accounting, administration, internet presence, etc.

The following pictures should provide a small impression of our work together:

Treatment of an emergency of a 2 month old girl. Our first aid box is always with us

Preparation of a PET Lamp

Treatment of A burn

Training in hand-washing

We teach and train tooth-brushing as well

Getting up to the communities is not always easy

The Plans for My Future

Of course I continue the work in the project for the rural population with the focus on health topics. The goal is that the living conditions will improve significantly. To achieve this, the economic situation has to improve as well and this should be made feasible with the selling of their products (especially handicraft) to a fair price. First we have to set up a stable market for their products.

The project is planned for seven years during which we work with the people in courses and trainings. We have started in the areas of health and handicraft and in the course of time we want to enhance it by agriculture and live-stock breeding.
